Problems To Be Addressed

In marketing, we are familiar with marketing mix or 7 P, being price, place promotion, product, people, process, and physical evidence. In promotion, there are two methods to carry out the promotion, Above the Line (ATL) and Below the Line (BTL). One of techniques in BTL promotion is event. One of important factors that should not be missed to be implemented in event business world is the event marketing or to market an event. Without observing at types of event or how big the event to be implemented is, the success of event implementation depends on the marketing effort that has been carried out.

Marketing is very important as an activity to attract people. Purpose of marketing is to boost the number of participants. It will push people to participate, or in other words, the end-target is that participants or visitors agreed to purchase ticket, to pay participating fee in an event. In marketing an event, the organization requires marketing event strategy that will hit the bull's eyes. It requires planning, process, implementation and activity control. The success in reaching marketing target, it will become indicator of success for organization in carrying out marketing of an event (event marketing).
